Art Unit: 1711

1. Claims 23-35 and 37-59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Firstly, applicant has failed to provide support or definition for the term, “non-foamed polyisocyanate(s)”. Applicant has stated that support for the language is present within page 3, lines 26-33. The examiner has considered this passage, and while it states that a foam is not produced, it does not define “non-foamed polyisocyanate(s)”. The term, “foam”, as used within the specification and as understood within the polyurethane art pertains to a polymeric foam structure; it does not pertain to monomeric polyisocyanate reactants; therefore, it cannot be determined from the cited passage exactly what applicant contemplates by the term.

Secondly, despite applicant’s response, adequate and clear support has not been found for the subject matter of amended claims 48 and 49. Explanation as to how and where the specification provides support for the amended language is required.

2. Claims 23-35 and 37-59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is unclear what limitation or significance is to be ascribed to the language, “non-foamed”, when used in conjunction with “polyisocyanate(s)”. Since foams, by art-recognized definition are polymeric, and since polyisocyanates are understood to be monomeric or oligomeric, and therefore, non-polymeric, it is unclear how “non-foamed” further limits or modifies “polyisocyanate(s)”.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 23-27, 30, 31, 33-35, 42, 45, 48, 50, 55, 56, and 59 are rejected under 35

U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by EP 419114.

The reference discloses the reaction of polyisocyanates with cyclic carbonates having an isocyanate reactive substituent attached to the ring, and the use of the resulting product within polymers. See abstract and page 3, lines 1-8. Applicant has argued that the reference pertains to a polymeric foam; therefore, the instant claims, as amended, are distinguished from the reference. In response, while the reference does pertain to a polymeric foam product, applicant has not established that the reference does not disclose non-foamed polyisocyanate monomers that correspond to those claimed, since reactants equivalent to those of applicant are being used within the reference. Furthermore, as aforementioned, since polyisocyanates are monomeric and foams are polymeric, it is unclear how the amended language distinguishes the claims, since one would expect that pre-polymerized components or reactants cannot be polymeric foams. In summation, since it cannot be determined what significance can be ascribed to the “non-foamed” language, and since applicant’s arguments are solely directed to the foamed product of the reference, as opposed to the disclosed reaction of the polyisocyanates and cyclic coreactants, it has not been established that the claimed non-foamed monomers are not encompassed by the reference.

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
